SOME FLU PREVENTION TIPS:

A Cold or the Flu?

How do you tell the difference?

Cold Or The Flu?

First, A Little Context. The Flu Might Mask Itself As A Cold In Its Early Stages. They're Both Contagious Viruses Of The Upper Respiratory Tract, And Both Common In Late Winter And Early Spring.

Consider These Symptoms To Help Distinguish Between Them:

Cold – Comes With Congestion And A Sore Throat. Sneezing Is Common And You Might Get Chest Pain And A Headache.

Flu – Like The Cold, You Might Get Congestion And A Sore Throat With Chest Pain And Coughing. But You're More Likely To Have A Headache With The Flu, Along With Muscle Aches And Fatigue. Flu Symptoms Tend To Appear Quickly Too, And Usually Come With A 100°+ Fever That Typically Lasts Three To Four Days.

Take Your Temperature To Tell If You've Got A Cold Or The Flu. You've Probably Got The Latter If You Have A Temperature Between 100° Annd 102°F. Note Children Are At Higher Risk Of An Extreme Fever From The Flu Than Adults.

Flu Prevention

The Flu Spreads Between People Through Respiratory Secretions, Often Among Large Groups In Close Proximity, Like A Daycare, Nursing Home, Classroom Or Office. You Can Pick It Up When Someone Coughs, Sneezes Or With Direct Exposure To Their Germs

Don't Share Drinks Or Utensils –

Even Just Touching A Contaminated Item Can Infect You With The Virus When You Touch Or Rub Your Eyes, Nose Or Mouth. That's Why Frequent Handwashing Is So Important If You're Serious About Flu Prevention.

Get Vaccinated –

This Might Be One Of The Most Effective Flu Prevention Tips, Say Officials, When It's Available In Your Area. The Best Time To Get It Is Early Fall, Though Getting It In Winter Is Fine If You Have Yet To Do It.

Avoid Germs –

Flu Prevention Is About Minimizing Your Exposure To Germs. While It's Not Always Possible To Avoid Sick People, You Can At Least Practice Good Hygiene. Wash Your Hands Often, With Hot, Soapy Water

Stay Healthy

Eat Healthy Too, With A Balanced Diet, Including Plenty Of Fruits And Vegetables. Try To Sleep Between Seven And Nine Hours A Night To Give Your Immune System A Helping Hand.

Be Considerate Of Others As Well. Stay At Home If You Get Sick And Stay There At Least Until Your Fever Is Gone (If You Don't Take Medicine). Sneeze Into Your Elbow – Not Your Hands – Which Can Transmit Germs And Infect Others. Blow Your Nose In Tissues And Throw Them Out (Please!) So Others Don't Find Them. Be A Nice Sick Person, Take These Flu Prevention Tips, And You're In Better Shape To Tell The Flu Virus Where To Go.

ECZEMA PREVENTION TIPS:

It is common to find rashes on children, but eczema is more than just a rash. It is skin condition that can turn into a struggle for both parents and children. You may have never heard of eczema until your child was diagnosed with it, but now what?

Keep Your Child's Skin Moisturized

There are different eczema trigger factors, which can lead to an outbreak. These trigger factors may include dust, stress, sweat, and laundry detergent. However, for some children, the cause is nothing more than dry skin. We instinctively want to touch and itch dry skin to provide relief and children do the same. Moisturize your child each day. Their itching may not completely cease, but you should notice an improvement.

When moisturizing your child, aim for application throughout the day. However, the most important step is to moisturize their body immediately following a bath or shower. Your goal is to lock in the moisture. If your child is old enough, get them in the habit of reaching for moisturizer each time they feel the need to itch.
